MEMORANDUM FOR: Director of Central Intelligence.

FROM:

Director, Office of External Affairs

25X1

SUBJECT: Second "Security Day" for Administration Officials

1. Action Requested: Sign the attached invitations.
2. Background: Last year the White House sponsored a "Security Day" for Administration spokespersons which CIA hosted . It was extremely well received. Now, with the mounting concern for leaks and other security considerations, we would like to do it again for those who were unable to attend and/or are in newly-assigned public positions. A guest list is attached at left. Your personal invitation will ensure good attendance.

25X1

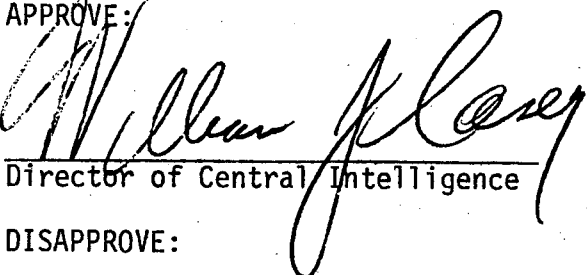

Although this will be a CIA show from start to finish, it has the enthusiastic support of Ed Hickey, NSC Security Staff, Don Gregg, NSC Intelligence, and Mort Allin, Deputy White House Press Secretary. You may recall that Chief of Staff Jim Baker attended the previous session and gave it his strong endorsement.

3. Recommendation: Sign the attached letters of invitation.

0915- Hostile Intelligence Services Targeted Against U.S. Officials
0950

CIA and FBI counterintelligence officers will discuss methods (physical surveillance, local intercept techniques, social contact and blackmail procedures, etc.) employed by hostile intelligence agencies such as the KGB, DGI, etc., against U.S. Government officials both in the United States and overseas. Senior U.S. officials, particularly in a new administration, are high on the priority list of foreign intelligence operatives.

1000- Soviet Technical Devices and Techniques
1025

The Soviet intelligence service uses a variety of intricate and highly-effective technical devices in support of its clandestine collection in the U.S. and throughout the world. A senior officer from CIA's counterintelligence staff will display several of these devices (concealed radio transmitters and foreign agent communications equipment), describe their uses and provide actual examples of their effectiveness.
